

Because I am an avid XM radio listener, it is important for me to be able to track traffic and weather alerts while traveling. The benefit of having XM is that it is not necessary to know the local channels. One can use the XM channels anywhere in the United States. For this privilege, I pay a premium. I am not smart enough to understand why the National Association of Broadcasters thinks this privilege is unfair. I respectfully ask that the FCC reject the National Association of Broadcasters' petition 04-160. Thank you.
